“No Water No Life – Addressing the World’s Thirst”

No Water No Life® founding director, Alison M. Jones, shares her video and still photography with audiences to raise awareness of the vulnerability of our freshwater resources. In Africa and North America, her No Water No Life (NWNL) expeditions have queried scientists and stewards on the impact of deforestation, pollution, infrastructure and climate change on the availability of clean freshwater. NWNL promotes today’s urgent need for reduced consumption of this vital commodity and more sustainable watershed management.
